Overview

Some or all of the funding allocated to this organisation is part of a Social Investment Outcomes Agreement. Social investment is an approach that uses data and evidence to make better decisions about how to invest in social services. The goal is to improve outcomes for New Zealanders by understanding which services work, when, for whom, and at what cost.

What Data We Collect and Share

To help improve services and learn what works best, data about the services you receive will be shared with Stats NZ and integrated into the Integrated Data Infrastructure (IDI). All data shared with the IDI is strictly protected. The IDI uses strict rules and security measures to keep your information safe and confidential. The data is used only in a way that aggregates information at a group level—meaning your personal information is never monitored or tracked individually.
